

Two of the greatest authorities on Mountain Men taught at Brigham Young University. and were from Provo. LeRoy and Ann Hafen were the greatest authorities on the Fur Traders of the American West, They compiled the history of the Mountain Men of America and wrote their biographies.

Following the first Mountain Man rendezvous held in the Rocky Mountains, Provost and his men returned to Utah Lake. Provost built/or had built two fur trading posts there. One was on the Timpanogos River (present-day Provo) near where it emptied into Utah Lake. The other was on the Proveau River (present-day Jordan River). These were temporary structures, probably no more than a brush hut with a makeshift barricade around it.

Rendezvous gatherings were probably held at Provo and the Lehi Jordan River Areas. Imagine the gathering of these men as they shared the tales of the previous year and drank their firewater and enjoyed the new supply of food and drink.

This word search has the last names of 37 of the most prominent Mountain Men of Utah and the West.
